

Strut your stuff at summer school

DANCER Sarah Jaggard – who performed at this year's Glastonbury Festival – is setting up a Melton Musical Theatre Summer School.

Sarah (27), a freelance dancer, choreographer and teacher from Burton Lazars, dances for the agency Area 51 which was contracted to perform entertainment between acts. She said: "I'd never been to Glastonbury before so it was amazing.

Sarah started dancing when she was three in Rearsby. She went on to the Trevonne Stage School, and danced while at school in Melton and at Melton College where she did her A-levels.

From there she went on to do a dance degree at Bretton Hall, part of the University of Leeds, before a year's training at a contemporary dance company in London.

Since then she has worked abroad as a singer and dancer, worked for local theatre companies and dances professionally on a seasonal basis.

She teaches dance for a company called Stagecoach in London, teaches freelance at King Edward VII School one afternoon a week and gets involved with primary schools running dance workshops.

As part of that work Sarah is setting up a Melton Musical Theatre Summer School for youngsters aged seven to 16 being held at John Ferneley High School from July 28 to August 1.

It is run by a new company Sarah is trying to launch called Edge Dance (Encouraging Dance Growth in Education).

From 10am to 4pm each day children will take part in acting, singing and dancing workshops with practising professionals. The summer school will culminate in a performance to family and friends.

The summer school costs £80. No previous experience is necessary. For more details call Sarah on 07505 970808 or e-mail edgedance@live.com

In line for a musical summer

A MELTON Musical Theatre Summer School for youngsters aged seven to 16 is being held at John Ferneley High School from July 28 to August 1.

From 10am to 4pm each day children will take part in acting, singing and dancing workshops with practising professionals, culminating in a performance to family and friends.

The summer school costs £80. No previous experience necessary. For details call Sarah on 07505 970808 or e-mail edgedance@live.com